on Occupational Health

33rd International Congress on Occupational Health

6 - 10 February 2022

Melbourne - Rome global digital congress

OFFICIAL CONGRESS
PARTNERSHIP & EXHIBITION
PROSPECTUS

The International Congress on Occupational Health is held every three years by the International Commission on Occupational Health (ICOH). Due to the Covid-19 pandemic, the next edition, previously planned to be held in Melbourne in 2021, will be held from 6-10 February 2022 in a new digital format.

The digital Congress will be a high level experience in terms of scientific content and interaction, with networking and engagement opportunities. The Congress will be run through a visually rich digital platform recreating the environment of an in-presence congress. The platform will accommodate all sessions and main events that are traditionally included in the ICOH Congress format, and will also feature networking rooms, live chats, exhibition areas, and much more.

Participants will have 24/7 on-demand access to all sessions and content through the Congress digital platform. Live broadcasting will be organized for Plenary sessions and the Global Policy Forum on two stages, taking into account different time zones (“Rome stage” and “Melbourne stage”). Semi-Plenary sessions will provide the opportunity of a live discussion at the end of each session, while Special Sessions, Oral Free Paper and Interactive Poster sessions will be available on-demand at any time during the Congress through the Congress digital platform.

The ICOH Congress is recognized as the most relevant Congress in the world for occupational health professionals, policy makers, academics and researchers across a multitude of disciplines.

With the theme “Sharing solutions in occupational health through and beyond the pandemic”, ICOH 2022 will be a forum to share knowledge, discuss best practices and share solutions for better worker health worldwide. Furthermore, COVID-19 will be the main focus of the Global Policy Forum, with the theme “Work as a key dimension of the COVID-19 pandemic: Sharing experiences and solutions in occupational health”.

OVERVIEW

Congress Objectives

The COVID-19 pandemic has had an unprecedented impact on the health and wellbeing of workers across the globe. This applies not just to healthcare workers and other workers in the front line of the pandemic response, but also to those workers who have lost their employment due to the severe economic impact.

The pandemic has also increased health inequities in the workplace, with the most vulnerable often being at greatest risk, such as migrant workers through having poorer working and living environments, and lower access to prevention measures and vaccines. Working arrangements have undergone dramatic changes in many jobs and these workers are having to adapt to the new reality of working and living with COVID. Therefore, the main theme of the 2022 ICOH Congress is 'Sharing solutions in occupational health through and beyond the pandemic'. Through the Plenary and Semi-Plenary presentations, Special Sessions and the Policy Forum, the Congress will explore the multiple impacts of COVID-19 and investigate ways that workers, occupational health professionals, employers and governments can work together to develop and share solutions to best prepare workplaces for a post pandemic world.
